PRESIDENT ENDS FRONTIER BOUNDS FOR ALL HISTORY

Days of "Laissez Faire" Are Now Obsolete As Slave Marts of Babylon—Civilization Has Made Great Change

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—President Roosevelt has started a new era which will go on regardless of his own political fate at the 1936 elections or any others to follow. That is the verdict of "The National Sphere," one of the most astute observers of national affairs and trends in United States.

"The days of laissez faire are as obsolete as the slave markets of Babylon. The civilization of yesterday is as remote as that of Rome."

With this startling comparison, the "Sphere" continues: "Even if this administration should be repudiated at the polls, the directionals it has pursued would continue to be followed. Usually the conservatives must come into power to consolidate the gains of the liberals."

"Never again will there be that freedom which is the virtue of the frontier. Hereafter the genius of enterprise must go into politics and act through political agencies."

Britain's action in adopting an "NRA" type of program gives added significance to the "Sphere's" statements. Until recently we talked of the "old days" as meaning the last generation. But today the "old days" mean modern times up to the inauguration of the Roosevelt recovery regime.

The "Sphere's" survey is of the Roosevelt plan which has done these astonishing things:

- 1—Placed the industries of United States under codes regulating hours and wages.
- 2—Began the socialization of the banking structure, with guarantees for bank deposits and government buying up of banks' securities.
- 3—Restricted farm production by the bonus system.
- 4—Launched a spending program which will take 10 billion dollars in two years.

"Like a Detour Not Main Line"

The "Sphere's" striking comment "The 'Sphere's' striking comment 'It is idle in the circumstances to apply to the existing state of affairs the tests of orthodoxy. Wise men will consider rather the likelihood and probabilities under the new dispensation. They will remember that economic law temporarily curbs and is being vetoed by government action.'"

"They will realize that even now behind the kindly exhortations of officials there is the voice of a thrifty minority."

A resolution from Beaver River opposing any government restriction on what elevator agents could do, as also was one from Inland Empire, requesting the government to reduce the price of wheat. The resolution should be in the amount of wheat marketed, not in the acreage sown to wheat. The Resolution Committee took the view that reduction of acreage had been decided upon at London without their knowledge or consent, and that it was futile to protest about it now, in the following resolution was submitted:

Whereas, the Government of Canada has become a party to an international agreement which provides for the limitation of the volume of what may be exported from the Dominion;

Therefore, be it resolved, that we, the Dominion Government, do hereby request the government to reduce the price of wheat.

CHURCHILL IN PLEA FOR AIR FORCE SAFETY

Britain Girl About With Many Dangers, Says Speech

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—Delating Great Britain in "Out about with many dangers," Sir Winston Churchill called last night for the building of a strong protective air force shall co-operation with the League of Nations.

A transcript of the address, made available in New York, quoted the former chancellor of the exchequer as saying:

"The obvious cause of war from the air has fallen upon the world, and I say to you, don't you think we ought to try to make ourselves strong to attack from the air as we have used to make us against invasion from the sea?"

"We are not the only weak and independent country that we used to be, that any of you were born into. We have to face the new civilization exposed to the ferocious power of the air."

"I am all for diplomacy and good intentions," he said, "but first of all we ought to make the land."

Great Britain, he declared, has a right to be able to stand on its own feet, and he said that he was not paying off our bills at any rate, but we are on our way, which is more than the Americans or the Germans or the French can say.

"Our finances have been put under such a strain that we are not paying off our bills at any rate, but we are on our way, which is more than the Americans or the Germans or the French can say."

The father was unharmed, his horses were in the barn and his dog was alone in the house, when Subotta was killed. The cause of the fire was not known.

SWARTHY EURASIAN KILLER IS GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

the correct verdict. However, you were the judges of the facts and have decided the matter. It is not for me to lecture you as to whether or not you exercised the right discretion—I am only saying that in my view you could quite well have brought in a verdict of murder. You will be discharged until Thursday morning.

Hugh C. Macdonald, K.C., defence counsel, spoke to DeMarco as soon as court adjourned, and the swarthy killer laughed heartily.

E. R. Cogswell, K.C., crown prosecutor, had no comment to make. Court was crammed to suffocation and there were close on 300 waiting in the lobby of the court house to hear the verdict of the jury, which was out for 58 minutes.

The afternoon was given over to completing the case for the crown. Ernest Hochelt was first rebuttal witness called by the crown when court started at 2 p.m.

Mr. Macdonald objected immediately—said that Hochelt had said in his own evidence that he had not taken part in the St. Elmo hotel fracas. It was rebuttal of rebuttal, contended defence counsel.

His Lordship ruled that Mr. Cogswell's question was admissible.

DENIES THREATS

Mr. Cogswell asked about the old trouble between Hochelt and the DeMarco mentioned by accused, and Hochelt said it had been a dispute over some work. He harbored no grudge and made no threats, he said.

His Lordship—And when was this trouble?

A—Around October 15, 1932. 24th of December. You have heard DeMarco's story—how far from your door did you come?

A—I did not leave my door at all.

His Lordship—Did you see any other man attack DeMarco, other than what you have told us?

A—No, sir.

WAS NOT MISTAKEN

Mr. Macdonald—In December, 1932, did you have an argument with DeMarco in the lobby of the St. Elmo hotel?

A—No, I did not.

Q—Were you drunk? Could you have been drunk and forgotten?

A—No.

Mr. Cogswell announced, when Mr. Macdonald finished, that the crown closed its case. Mr. Macdonald commenced his address to the jury at 2:15 p.m.

Speaking for slaythly over DeMarco, Mr. Macdonald asked the jury to acquit his client, he had acted through fear of his life and in self-defence. He asked the jury to recall that DeMarco came of races addicted to the knife in fighting. The defence counsel insisted that Ernest Hochelt, impelled by malice, had attacked DeMarco along with Bernatchez, and that Hochelt's evidence was false.

CROWN DOUBTS STORY

Mr. Cogswell spoke for little more than ten minutes. He ridiculed DeMarco's story of being attacked by two men in the St. Elmo hallway, when Bernatchez alone could have manhandled the accused quite easily. Mr. Cogswell also poured scorn on DeMarco's story of "everything going black after the fight" and not knowing what he was doing.

DeMarco leaned forward anxiously in the dock and peered earnestly and searchingly at the jury as though to try and read their minds. The six good men and true all wore poker faces, however.

MURDER DEFINED

His Worship commenced his summing-up at 2:45 p.m. "I will explain to you the law as it applies to this case," said Mr. Justice Boyle, who then went on to explain the act of killing a human being, called homicide. Homicide may be culpable or non-culpable—in this case we deal with culpable homicide.

"Culpable homicide may be murder, or it may be manslaughter," His Lordship added.

His Lordship then read the clauses in the Criminal Code of Canada dealing with culpable homicide. The jury were reminded that one thing to be established by the crown was intention to commit a crime, and His Lordship cited the suggestive utterances of DeMarco after the stabbing.

In conclusion, His Lordship warned the jury that conviction of guilt beyond all reasonable doubt must be reached in the minds of the jury.

STORIES COMPARED

"I must say that it seems to me that if you believe the story of the two witnesses, there can be no doubt it was murder. Their story is that Bernatchez was stabbed without provocation, that he had not even struck a blow before he was stabbed."

"If you believe the story of the accused—and that story stands or falls by whether or not you believe the two witnesses—you will believe the story of the accused of being beaten and terrified and it was only then he resorted to the knife."

"If you think that is true, you will find him not guilty. Then he should go free."

"But if you believe his story, and think he used too much force and should not have taken to the knife, then you must find his guilty of manslaughter."

"But I should warn you that what a man says at the time is more indicative of the state of his mind than anything he says at a later date," added His Lordship.

ONLY ONE LAW

His Lordship told the jury to disregard any suggestions advanced that because DeMarco was of French and Hindu blood, and had been born in India, there was something about him which made it excusable for him to do something not permitted a Canadian.

He had left India as an infant, and had been brought up in this country or the United States.

The jury retired at 4:30 but were recalled shortly after on the report of Mr. Macdonald that the wrong inference had been drawn by the jury from His Lordship's remarks on one point.

There was some bickering between Mr. Macdonald and Mr. Cogswell on the point of the objection with regard to threats or remarks made by DeMarco on his way out through the hotel lobby after the crime.

His Lordship had William Ellis, official court reporter, read the remarks referred to, and the jury again retired, to return in less than an hour with the verdict which meant imprisonment for life for DeMarco.

A TOUGH HAND

Only a very experienced player can win 2-odd at hearts on the following hand. It will be found difficult enough to accomplish that with all cards exposed, provided the defense is perfect.

Bidding went: South, 1-Heart; North, 2-Club; East, 2-Diamond; South, 2-Hearts. East and West were vulnerable, with no score towards game. North and South were not vulnerable, and had a score of 40 points. The opening lead was the 8 of diamonds. Try to win 2-odd, before reaching the solution.

South can count 6 heart tricks, with a single diamond trick in dummy. He must win another trick in some way. Evidently the declarer cannot win a second diamond trick. Opponents will not permit dummy to trump a spade. The suit begins with winning his 2-odd line in dummy's long club suit. Against perfect defense no club trick can be won directly. From the first declarer must concentrate on an end play which will oblige West to lead clubs, so that dummy can win 2 tricks in that suit while the declarer discards his 2 losing diamonds.

To accomplish the feat double-dummy proceed as described. Win the first trick with dummy's Ace of diamonds. Lead the lowest club. Trump with the Q. If you trump low you cannot make the end play required to win 2-odd, as West must do his best not to allow the end play to come off. Lead the 6 of trumps. West's best defense is to play his 10 with dummy's 2. Lead and trump another club. Put dummy in the lead with your 3 of hearts and dummy's 8. West must play his 6. Trump the third lead of clubs with South's Ace. Lead South's last trump, forcing West to win declarer's 2 with his own 4.

South has won 5 trump tricks and one trick in dummy. West has won a single trick and he holds nothing but 4 spades and the J-6 of clubs. Dummy has the K-10 of clubs and nothing else of value. East has the Q-4-3 of spades and the top diamond. Defensive strategy is to oblige South to win a spade trick, so that he must lead a diamond. Lead West's 8 of spades. South will duck his 6. Lead the J of spades. Under it throw South's 10. South will also duck his last 2 spades under those of West. That will give West 3 tricks total. Now he must lead clubs. Dummy will win 2 tricks in that suit, giving South his

25TH ANNUAL SPIEL PENS AT VEGREVILLE

—BILL LEWIS—

One of the Edmonton boys who is rapidly climbing to fame in the National Hockey League is Roger Jenkins, who is now playing regularly on the Chicago Blackhawks defense line. Lately, Chicago's greatest athletic player, Benny Margaron, Toronto Telegram columnist, has the following to say of him:

"Roger Jenkins, youthful right defense player of the Chicago Blackhawks whom critics are referring to as one of the finds of the season, is really new to the National Hockey League."

"Jenkins hails from Edmonton, Alberta, and was picked up by the Hawks three years ago from amateur company."

"After a few games, with the Chicago club, Jenkins was loaned out to the London club of the International League."

"After a month with the London club, then, Connie Smythe, of the Toronto Maple Leafs, who was impressed with Jenkins' play, loaned him to the International League, made a deal for the youngster with the Chicago Blackhawks who immediately went to the Maple Leafs on loan."

"He filled in for Charlie Conacher, who had sustained a broken wing."

"After Conacher's return, he reverted to the Blackhawks, and the following fall of 1931-2, was loaned to the Bronx team of the International League."

"Last year, Jenkins came back to the Hawks and was used at night on the 'kid line' in the place of Jenkins, McPherson and McKennie."

"This season, Tom Gorman converted the idea of converting Roger into a defense man."

"Jenkins paired off with Lionel Conacher and has been one of the big reasons for the success of the Blackhawks team."

"He is perhaps one of the fastest skaters in the National League."

"He blocks cleverly and has a long stick, and is a very good skater."

"Jenkins stands five feet eleven inches and weighs 170 pounds and is believed to have a very bright hockey future."

There is quite a battle raging at the University of Alberta at the moment with regard to the proposed football season for the football season.

"The 'Jocks' oppose the plan advanced by Zeke Ayer, secretary of the Men's Athletic Association and manager of the football team."

"But it would seem as if this matter and to most football men in the city that the installation of a football system, providing the expenditure was not exorbitant, would be a paying investment, or at least one that would pay for itself."

In addition to the inter-collegiate games, the city and provincial gridiron games could be played there and the revenue thus derived would be not inconsiderable.

He's Tower Of Strength On Eskimos

Eskimos Have Chance to Tie for Coveted Position by Victory Against Southerners at Arena

A tie for second place in the Northwestern Hockey League standings will be the objective of Duke Kladk Eskimos when they go into their scheduled battle with Calgary Tigers at the Arena tonight, starting at 8:30 o'clock sharp.

At present, the Eskimos are tied with Seattle for third place in the league, two points behind Portland and Vancouver, so that a win for the Eskimos would put them in the lead.

If they can get up in a deadlock with the Buckaroos and Lions, the Eskimos will be in a good challenging position to go after the Tigers for league leadership and they will be fighting their hardest to do this. They need every wing that they can get right now, and after the 2-3 draw with the Southerners in Calgary Monday night, they would seem able to give the lead.

ESKIMO SHOW CLASS

The Keastons, according to reports, were in fine form as they staged a comeback to tie the Lions Monday. Their first string line of Ty Arthur, Louis Holmes and Art Gagne was working in great form, and whenever they allowed an enemy sailor within shooting range, they looked after him.

While his leg injury is none too well yet, Robertson is ready to go back to the rink and will provide a real barrier for the southerners to get up.

Like the Eskimos, Lloyd Turner's team is in a very tight spot. They will be working his hardest when they go to the rink tonight, and so that a real battle is expected when they swing into action.

Five Triumphs Are Registered In School Hockey

No less than five triumphs were registered in the southern section of the Public School Hockey League last night, with one victory in the junior section.

King Edward defeated Normal Practice 3-1 in a fast contest. The Kings were victorious.

Achieved scored 3-1 verdict over Bennett in the southern section. The Kings were victorious.

What the use of the captain and dynamic right wing of New York Rangers, doing a lot of per- forming over the records when you have a team like this. They lead the league in everything. They lead in goals, in assists, in points, in the season or individual games. And then too, they lead in the Stanley Cup. I think the Rangers are going to win the Stanley Cup.

Stuarmen Climb Still Higher In Senior Ice Loop

Student Sextet Slips Up On Opportunity to Tie Leadership—Have Good Attendance at Game

Showing decided superiority in all departments of play, the Stuarmen on Monday evening went into undisputed possession of first place on the senior league hockey ladder when they defeated coach Allen Wilson's green and gold University of Alberta squad 4-2 in the finest exhibition of senior league hockey played here this season.

Had it not been for a series of errors, the Stuarmen would have been defeated. As a result, the Stuarmen have a record of 10 points, four points ahead of the students, in second place.

Fully 1,000 fans, the largest crowd to congregate at the arena for some time, witnessed the game.

STUDENTS OPEN SCORE

Scoring opened half way through the first period when Jack McConnell, sharp winger on the student's aggregation, snared a well-timed pass from the center and followed a face off before the Stuart line, which was in a tight position, were operating short handed. Joining in the play was the senior man, having been given a pass in the center by Clarence Campbell.

Three minutes elapsed before the score was tied.

Lloyd McIntyre, former Eskimo professional, made a solo effort, but was forced to the boards near the end of the first period.

The second period opened with the students making every effort to regain the lead, but they were ruled off because his method of swinging a baton was not in line with the rule book. At this juncture the green and gold poured in the second period, following the advantage of every opportunity.

Forcing the play into the Stuarmen's territory, but to no avail. Captain Graham managed to break away from a melee in front of the goal.

Defeat of the resolution advocating short and intermediate term credit, a resolution brought before the convention with the sanction of the board of directors, caused no little surprise.

It read as follows: "Whereas there is an imperative need among western farmers for short term credit to meet such emergency needs as the purchase of implements, supplies, horse and other farm necessities and; and whereas there is a further requirement for a different type of credit commonly called intermediate credit, to meet charges extending over a period of two or three years in connection with the production and the replacement of farm machinery and; and whereas our Canadian banks have failed to meet these requirements;

PHILOSOPHY OF C. C. F. PARTY IS OUTLINED

After "He quoted a number of the writings of Lenin to which in my private thinking I constantly have back," namely:

"It is our intention to storm a fortress cannot refuse to continue the war after he has taken the fortress. There are only two alternatives: either we shall take the fortress with the intention of holding it, or else, instead of trying to storm it, we must say that we ask for no more than a little place beside the fortress."

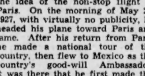

Continuing, he said: "Men and women, representing the country-side of Alberta, which is a whole den of thieves, are you going to be so pusillanimous, so utterly feeble, so utterly cowardly, as to be afraid to ask for no more than a little place, a place wholly unworthy of a place at the foot of the hill from which you can look up meekly to your comrades in the fortress and thank God without ceasing that you are so well governed? Can you believe it of you and I ask you to take the fortress?"
